

Empirical Research Methods

INTA 6003

This course introduces research methods in international affairs. It emphasizes writing research proposals, empirical techniques, gathering and assembling data, and methods for analyzing and reporting results.

---

Comparative Politics

INTA 6202

This course surveys the major political types of the late twentieth century world and explores their various development characteristics.

---

International Political Economy

INTA 6302

This course is an introduction to the politics of international economic relations. Major theoretical approaches are applied to international trade, international monetary relations, and global production in the modern era.

---

Innovation, the State and Industrial Development in International Perspective

INTA 6740

Research seminar exploring the role of the state in industrial development, innovation and business-government relations. Special attention given to science and technology policies and their influence in different international and industrial contexts. Crosslisted with PUBP 6740.

---

Information and Communication Technologies and Global Development

INTA /CS 6745

Focus on technology design, adoption, and use as seen through the lens of global development.

---

Comparative Science and Technology Policy

INTA 6753

Examination of the social, political, and cultural contexts of science and technology, and how they affect the research, development, and regulatory policies of nations. Crosslisted with PUBP 6753.

---

Political Economy of Development

INTA 8803

Introduces research on the causes and consequences of contemporary armed conflict as well as economic studies of terrorism..